JOINT RESEARCH

CSISでは、1998年の設立以来、様々な空間データやサービスを「研究用空間データ基盤」として整備し、国内外の研究者の方々に共同研究として利用していただくことで、空間情報科学に関する研究を支援・推進しています。詳しくは概要ページをご覧ください。また、共同研究は年度単位で実施しています。各種申請手順については説明書をご確認ください。

Since its establishment in 1998, CSIS maintains a Spatial Data Infrastructure (SDI) for Research Use, providing a wide range of spatial datasets and services to support and advance research in spatial information science. These resources are available to researchers in Japan and abroad through Joint Research Programs. For more information, please see the Overview page. Joint Research is conducted on a Japanese fiscal-year basis from April to March. For application procedures, please refer to the Manual.

Application Process for Joint Research

The Spatial Data Infrastructure (SDI) for Research includes datasets that cannot be provided without restriction due to usage conditions, copyright, or other limitations, as well as datasets granted by companies and organizations for research purposes. Therefore, applicants must first apply for Joint Research involving the use of the Spatial Data Infrastructure, following the Regulations on Joint Research. Applications will be reviewed, and upon approval, applicants will be granted permission to use the datasets and services as Joint Research Investigators of the Center.

All application procedures for Joint Research are conducted online. Please refer to the Application Instructions and apply via the Joint Research Assist System (JoRAS). Once approved, datasets and services will be available through JoRAS (some datasets and services excluded).

[Important] When submitting a Joint Research application, please select only the datasets that are strictly necessary for your research, in accordance with your research plan.

Note: Under Article 8\(2\)\(4\), a Principal Joint Research Investigator (PI) affiliated with an institution outside Japan must submit proof of ethics training. Details will be provided during review.

FAQ for users outside Japan

Q1. Who is eligible to apply from outside Japan?

Researchers affiliated with universities or research institutes outside Japan can apply to use JoRAS. The principal investigator (PI) should be a faculty member or equivalent, and other faculty members and students may participate as Project Members. Students may participate if they share the same affiliation as the PI or another faculty member participating as a Project Member, and are supervised by that PI or faculty member.

Q2. Are there additional review steps or ethics requirements for overseas users?

Depending on the dataset and the policy of the original data provider, applications from overseas may undergo additional review. You may be asked to submit documents such as a certificate of completion of a research ethics training course or an extra consent/agreement form; any such requirements will be communicated during the review.

Q3. How long does the review process take for overseas applications?

The review period varies by dataset and proposal, but applications from overseas institutions may take longer than domestic ones because we sometimes need to consult with external data providers.

Q4. Which datasets can be used outside Japan?

Only datasets explicitly labeled as "Accessible Worldwide" can be used outside Japan.

Q5. Can I use JoRAS data with generative AI services (e.g., ChatGPT)?

As a rule, you must not upload JoRAS data or derivatives to external generative AI services, since this counts as third-party provision. Limited exceptions may be granted only after prior approval for tools that guarantee no training on user data.

For other details: please refer to the Regulations and Application Instructions.

Applications involving the Principal Investigator or Project Members affiliated with institutions outside Japan may require additional procedures, such as the submission of proof of research ethics training, and the review process may take longer than usual.

2.1. New project registration

Notes for researchers at institutions outside Japan

If the Principal Investigator is affiliated with an institution outside Japan: only datasets labeled Accessible Worldwide are eligible for application.

If the Principal Investigator is affiliated with a Japanese institution: Project Members affiliated with institutions outside Japan may use only datasets labeled Accessible Worldwide.
